

Project Manager Consulting (m/f/d) – Berlin

The Mobility Institute Berlin (mib) was founded by Torben Greve, founder of MeinFernbus and co-founder of FlixBus, Europe's largest provider of long-distance bus travel, and four other shareholders in the summer of 2018.

By providing high quality consulting and analysis, we want to become a leading institution for the transition towards sustainable urban mobility. We consider the entirety of today's complex urban mobility systems. The needs of people and the establishment of an attractive and efficient public transport are our top priorities in this context.

Our approach is strongly data-driven. We think big and long-term. In collaboration with cities and public transport companies, we develop sustainable urban mobility visions, elaborate strategies on how to make them real, and support the implementation of related measures.

Together with you we want to push the transformation of urban mobility in cities around the world. A motivated, diverse, and experienced team is waiting for you, just as the opportunity to contribute to a growing company and to take on responsibility from day one.

WHAT WE OFFER:

- A responsible position in a growing team.
